Brisbane City Council - River's Edge Strategy

Brisbane City Council – River Access Network Plan

THE BRISBANE RIVER

The Brisbane River cuts a meandering path through the suburbs. Most reaches are 200-300 metres wide and are fringed by a diverse range of landscapes, including parks, roads, commercial and residential areas.

Public access is available to nearly 70% of the inner-city river banks, and riverside paths are well-used for walking and cycling.

This part of the river passes through the most densely populated parts of Brisbane and connects many of the city's most important destinations.
